He has given a brief resume of his life, claiming that he was currently 62 years of age, having been born in New York City and at the age of two, leaving New York City with his parents to reside in Sicily, Italy. SCIORTINO contended that he returned to the New York area at age 13 and resided there, except for a four-month period when he ran a bakery in the San Diego, California area in 1944, until he was 55 years of age. According to SCIORTINO, he moved to Tucson, Arizona, in 1957, upon doctor's orders, due to a serious sinus condition. SCIORTINO maintained that upon his arrival in Tucson he opened a bakery and that in early 1963 he expanded this business as a result of a $5,000 loan from JOSEPH BONANNO. SCIORTINO averred that immediately after the receipt of this loan he built a new plant designed to his specifications and that a business corporation was formed known as the Italian Bakery and Delicatessen, Inc., 4648 East Speedway Boulevard, Tucson, Arizona, with himself as president and BONANNO as secretary. SCIORTINO indicated that subsequent to the original loan from BONANNO he has borrowed an additional $1,000 to $2,000 for business purposes.

SCIORTINO went on to advise that to date he has not paid back any of the money loaned to him by BONANNO, however, indicated that subsequent to the initial $5,000 loan he has paid BONANNO various amounts of money for services performed as a salesman for sending and/or referring business to the bakery. SCIORTINO advised that all payments for these services were made in cash and that he would make a check out for a certain amount on a company check made payable to himself which he would in turn cash at the bakery and have the money available for payment to BONANNO. SCIORTINO avowed BONANNO would never pick up the cash himself, rather it was picked up almost exclusively by his son, JOSEPH CHARLES BONANNO, JR. He stated that the last time he had any money available for BONANNO was on October 23, 1964, when he had $49.02 which he gave to [redacted] as he could not locate either JOSEPH BONANNO or his son, JOSEPH JR.

SCIORTINO advised that he has not seen or heard from JOSEPH BONANNO for approximately one year and a half. Further, that he has not seen or heard from JOSEPH, JR.

in three or four months. (Subsequent to determining that SCIORTINO had given the above mentioned money to [redacted] [redacted] was interviewed regarding what he had done with the money and the whereabouts of BONANNO.

[redacted] claimed that he, by marriage, is the [redacted] JOSEPH BONANNO and that on three or four occasions subsequent to April, 1963, and up to October, 1964, has received money from SCIORTINO which he has utilized to pay the utility bills on the residence of JOSEPH and FAY BONANNO, 1847 East Elm Street, Tucson, Arizona. According to [redacted] he was requested by FAY BONANNO, immediately prior to her departure in April, 1963, to obtain money owed to her husband by SCIORTINO and pay the utility bills on their property in the event JOSEPH BONANNO, JR., failed to do so. [redacted] claimed that in each of these instances the money received did not exceed $60.)

SCIORTINO admitted having been arrested and fined in the New York area for bootlegging at the age of 22 [redacted]

During the time SCIORTINO was being interviewed he made mention of the fact that he came from a family of seven, five girls and two boys and that one of his brothers-in-law, who is also his cousin, carries the exact same name as he does, and this brother-in-law owns and operates a bakery and also resides in the Milwaukee, Wisconsin, area.

The Bureau's attention is called to the fact that SCIORTINO advised SA [redacted] that he feels sure the FBI knows all about him and that his life is an "open book" and would therefore be willing to discuss it "up to a certain point." He claimed that if he were to talk too much he would be leaving himself as vulnerable as MALACHI did.

[redacted] He noted that he is [redacted] of the FRANK BALISTRIERI, who is reportedly the head of the underworld in Milwaukee.

[redacted] stated there is a PETER SCIORTINO who operates an Italian bakery and delicatessen in Milwaukee and that he had sold an automobile to the Milwaukee PETER SCIORTINO. He stated that SCIORTINO telephoned him, stating that his brother-in-law was coming to Milwaukee and wanted to purchase a Buick automobile. He stated the Milwaukee PETER SCIORTINO gave him a deposit on an automobile for the PETER SCIORTINO from Tucson, Arizona, and the reason the Tucson SCIORTINO wanted to buy a car in Milwaukee is there are several Buick agencies in Milwaukee and competition is keen enough to permit a savings of approximately $500 on any Buick car. He stated the order for the Tucson SCIORTINO's Buick was received on June 9, 1964, and that on June 25, 1964, a 1964 Buick Electra, four-door sedan, was delivered. The trade-in on this car was a 1963 Buick, which had originally been purchased from [redacted] of Milwaukee, and the new Buick was financed through the Valley National Bank, which he recalled as being in Arizona. He noted the difference between the 1963 and 1964 Buick amounted to $1,754, which was paid by check on the Valley National Bank. He stated it is his recollection a check was issued, but the amount of money involved was actually covered by a loan from the bank to the Tucson SCIORTINO.

which place according to [redacted] obtained the stolen movements which he attempted to sell in January, 1947.

SCIORTINO said that in 1944 or early 1945, he lost contact with DAGUANNO as the fugitive travelled to the West Coast. He said that he, himself, in February or April, 1945, decided to travel to San Diego in an effort to set up a bakery shop there. He said that he made this decision as he was feeling ill at the time and thought the climate on the coast would be better for him.

He stated that he recalled that a family by the name of [redacted] resided in San Diego. He explained that he acted as a sponsor for [redacted] when she arrived in this country from Italy many years ago, and he thought that if he went to San Diego, the [redacted] could help him find his business. He said that on arriving at San Diego, the [redacted] found him a room located on Union Street of that city. He said that he could not recall the exact address, but thought that the house was in the 700 block on Union Street. He described it as a one-story frame house, dirty gray, near black in color. He stated that a small grass plot was located in front of the house, and that three or four steps led from the grass plot to the front door. He explained that the house was located on the southeast corner of Union Street, and an intersecting street or avenue located approximately five or six blocks south and parallel to the street on which the [redacted] live.

He said that with the assistance of the [redacted] who lived at [redacted] he met one [redacted]

b6
b7C

[redacted] He said that he entered into an agreement with [redacted] wherein he was to work with this individual in the operation of the bakery for several months, at the end of which time he would purchase it if it proved profitable.

He said that in late May, 1945, he received a wire from his mother, advising that his brother had died in New York. He gave up the operation of this shop and came to New York. He recalled that a week or ten days prior to leaving San Diego, BEN DAGUANNO visited him, driving up one morning to the bakery. He stated that DAGUANNO told him he had obtained his address through [redacted] who in turn had gotten it from SCIORTINO's wife in New York.

b7C

He recalled that DAGUANNO had the green Pontiac at this time, and he added that DAGUANNO told him when he arrived in San Diego that he was flat broke. He said DAGUANNO asked him if he could help him obtain a business in San Diego. He said DAGUANNO told him he had been in Los Angeles attempting to run a bookmaking scheme, but had been unsuccessful. He said that to help DAGUANNO he shared his room with him in the house on Union Street, and that a day or so after DAGUANNO arrived, the fugitive told him he had a job as a bartender at the Gay Paree Bar, 839 Fourth Avenue, San Diego.

PX 92-524
DON:dsn

He said that when he left San Diego to return East, DAGUANNO remained living in his room and apparently working at the Gay Paree. SCIORTINO was certain that the [redacted] knew the location of this rooming house as they had found the room for him when he arrived in San Diego, and further, because they delivered the telegram to him when he was advised of the death of his brother.

b7C

He said that after returning to New York, he, himself, took up his work at the bakery shop on Knickerbocker Avenue, and that in August, 1945, he received a letter from DAGUANNO asking him to return to California to assist him in a bookmaking scheme. He recalled that as a result of this letter, he telephoned DAGUANNO in Los Angeles and DAGUANNO told him he was operating a successful bookmaking scheme in Los Angeles with two or three other individuals as partners, and he desired SCIORTINO to come to California to more or less look after his interests as he, himself, could not read or write English.

He said that DAGUANNO promised to make him an equal partner in the scheme and assured him at the start at least ninety dollars a week. He said that accordingly he left Brooklyn in August, 1945, and travelled to Los Angeles where he immediately took up residence with the fugitive at 1203 South Union Street in that city.

He recalled that at that time, JAMES LA SALA was residing with them at the Union Street address, adding that the apartment there was actually LA SALA's. He said that LA SALA owned a restaurant in Los Angeles near the South Union Street address, and he emphatically maintained that he was certain LA SALA had no interest in the bookmaking scheme.

He said that upon arrival, DAGUANNO put him to work answering telephones, taking the bets from the various players and/or runners. He recalled that he worked from ten to twelve hours a day taking the bets and then figuring these sheets, and that he was paid ninety dollars a week for performing this service. He could not advise who the runners were, nor could he inform as to the location of the telephones. He merely stated in the latter respect that the group had two or three telephones which were located in the colored section of Los Angeles.

He said that shortly after coming to Los Angeles, he determined that one of the partners in the bookmaking scheme was [redacted] who had an interest in the [redacted] on [redacted] in [redacted]. He stated that DAGUANNO generally hung out at this establishment. He could not furnish information concerning the identity of the other individuals in the bookmaking scheme, although he said he thought there were four individuals who were partners.

b7C

He said that on many occasions DAGUANNO himself went to the Hollywood Racetrack during the season and invariably he could be found when at the track at the same location about 150 yards in front of the finish line, where he always remained when visiting the tracks in New York City.

He said that [redacted] went to the tracks with DAGUANNO.

b7C

He said that in August, 1945, DAGUANNO told him he would be gone for a few days, and that in a day or so [redacted] asked him if he knew DAGUANNO's address in New York, and replying in the affirmative, [redacted] then asked him to send a telegram to DAGUANNO in New York advising him that some socks ordered by [redacted] were the wrong size. He said that this was the first time he was aware of the fact that DAGUANNO had actually left for New York City, and as DAGUANNO had not told him this, he was very disturbed at the situation.

b7C

He said that about a week later, [redacted] came to him again and asked him to write a letter for him to DAGUANNO in New York. He said that both DAGUANNO and [redacted] could not write English. He said that [redacted] told him to advise DAGUANNO that he didn't want him to purchase anything East as it was difficult to sell it in Los Angeles. He said that he did not have any idea of the meaning of [redacted] remarks.

b6

b7C

He said that he recalled in addition a runner told him a player named [redacted] whose identity he did not know, was not paying the group money owed to them as a result of the placing of bets. He said that [redacted] owed the group five or six hundred dollars, and he also mentioned in his letter to DAGUANNO that he thought DAGUANNO was the only person who could get the money from [redacted]

PX 92-524

He said that as DAGUANNO left Los Angeles without telling him he was going to New York, and further as DAGUANNO never made him a partner in the bookmaking enterprise as promised, he and DAGUANNO were on bad terms from the end of August, when the fugitive returned to the coast, until the early part of October, 1945, when things became so strained between them he left DAGUANNO and returned to New York City.

He recalled that late in August, or early September, 1945, [redacted] arrived in Los Angeles probably from Brooklyn, and hung around with the fugitive for several months. He did not know where [redacted] resided when in Los Angeles.

SCIORTINO admitted several arrests by the New York City Police Department, including one for murder in the 1920's, which charge was dismissed. He said he had also been arrested for gambling and was arrested 18 or 20 years ago for bootlegging, all of which charges were dismissed.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date 12/19/641

Mr. PETER SCIORTINO, 4648 East Speedway Boulevard, advised that he has been in the bakery business all his life, first in New York, then for a four (4) month period during World War II in San Diego, and presently in Tucson, Arizona. He contended that he is presently 62 years of age and was born in New York City, New York, and departed New York City at the age of two for Sicily, Italy where he resided with his parents until the age of 13. Further, he advised that he left Sicily at age 13 when he returned to the New York area and resided in Manhattan until he was 27 years of age. According to SCIORTINO, he left Manhattan at the age of 27 and resided in Brooklyn, New York until he was 35 years of age; at which time, he moved to Tucson, Arizona on the specific orders of his doctor in view of a serious sinus condition. SCIORTINO maintained that he previously owned and operated bakery shops both in Manhattan and Brooklyn, New York. He further advised that he leased a bakery shop in the San Diego area in approximately 1944 for a four-month period.

SCIORTINO went on to relate that he first met JOSEPH BONANNO approximately 20 years ago when they resided in the same neighborhood together in the Brooklyn, New York area.

SCIORTINO contended that when he moved to Tucson, he opened a small bakery in the same block that his current shop is located and that about two and one-half years ago, he had aspirations of enlarging his business and made mention of this to BONANNO, who in turn loaned him $5,000 for this purpose. SCIORTINO averred that immediately after he received this loan, he had a new building designed to his specifications built, and that a business corporation was formed known as the Italian Bakery and Delicatessen, Incorporated, 4648 East Speedway Boulevard, Tucson, with himself as President and BONANNO as Secretary. He admitted borrowing additional money from BONANNO for business purposes on different occasions amounting to $1,000 or $2,000 subsequent to the initial loan of $5,000.

According to SCIORTINO, he has not paid any of the money back borrowed from BONANNO to date. However, immediately subsequent to the receipt of the initial loan and until October 23, 1964, he has paid BONANNO various amounts of money for services performed as a salesman in sending and/or referring business to the bakery. SCIORTINO stated that all the payments for these services were made in cash and that he would make a check out for a certain amount on a company check made payable to himself which he in turn would cash at the bakery and set aside for payment to BONANNO. SCIORTINO maintained that BONANNO would never pick up the cash himself, rather it was picked up almost exclusively by his son, JOSEPH CHARLES BONANNO, JR. He stated that the last time he had any money available for BONANNO was on October 23, 1964 when he had $49.02, which he gave to BONANNO's [redacted] as he could not locate either JOSEPH BONANNO or his son, JOE JR., for payment.

SCIORTINO advised that he has not seen or heard from JOSEPH BONANNO in approximately one and one-half years and that he has no idea as to his present whereabouts. He further advised that he has not seen or heard from JOSEPH, JR. in approximately three (3) or four (4) months and knew him to be in the Phoenix area at that time.

SCIORTINO admitted having been arrested and fined in the New York area for bootlegging at the age of 22 [redacted]

INTERVIEW WITH SUBJECT

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

1Date February 9, 1966

PETER SCIORTINO, 4648 East Speedway Boulevard, Tucson, Arizona, advised that his personal and business plans have been altered somewhat due to his wife's recent surgery for prolonged severe headaches. According to SCIORTINO, his wife entered the hospital last week and had her nerves clipped in the frontal section of her head to stop these headaches. SCIORTINO averred that subsequent to the operation, the doctor advised him that the operation itself was a success; however, his wife still complains of headaches, which stem from a psychosomatic origin.

SCIORTINO contended that based on his wife's problem, he intends to remain in Tucson until he can settle the corporation problem of the Italian bakery and delicatessen with FAY BONANNO. SCIORTINO said he plans to recontact FAY in the immediate future to see if he can get her to reach an agreement with him insofar as the corporation of the bakery is concerned.

Re Phoenix letter to Milwaukee, 4/14/70.

For the information of Phoenix, a review of the Milwaukee Public Telephone Directory in the commercial yellow pages section reflects that there is only one bakery in any way associated with SCIORTINO in Milwaukee. This public listing reflects that the name of this commercial firm is Sciortino's Bakery, 1101 East Brady Street, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

It is further noted for the information of Phoenix that a review of the Corporation and Partnership Records at the Milwaukee County Courthouse, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was conducted in response to referenced letter in an attempt to locate another Sciortino's Bakery. A review of the files of the Milwaukee County Courthouse under corporation titles, corporate names and indices for partnerships, limited partnerships and power of attorney files reflects no listing identifiable with Sciortino's Bakery.

The above record check was conducted in an attempt to furnish the Phoenix Division with data relating to ownership as well as other items of public record.
